People

A college education is said to be 40% classroom work and 60% life experiences. Nowhere are those life experiences better seen than when people get together.

New Faces

This year, some of Bradley's new students, and old, put on a production called New Faces. It was raved about by the students and the cast enjoyed it just as much.

Below: Nikka Tyllas, Monica McKenna, Becky Thurwanger, Adam DelConte, Sam Coussens and Kabari Hendrick creating the "Pyramid Effect."

Right: Sophia Jones monitors the gallery at Heuser Art Center. It sure looks like it takes a lot of monitoring, doesn't it?

All photos by: Lexie Beer

Jobs

Left: Many students take advantage of the free services at the Health Center in Heitz Hall. Erica Buys helps by answering phones, filing and making appointments.

Below: This student gets her work done in the Cullom-Davis Library. The library is always a great place to be, especially when the student workers get their jobs done.

Above: Liz Hollow keeps the copiers under control down in the ITPS center in Bradley Hall. That sure looks like a great job!

Left:
These members of Sigma Theta Epsilon actually look rather warm and excited. Too bad they don't realize it's about to start raining on them.

Below:
The girls are showing their support for the Center for Learning Assistance. They also may have been a little smarter than some of the other groups and watched the weather before they braved the night.

Above:
The Shack-a-Thon sure seemed to be a good time for everyone and these students were even more prepared than most, but where's the campfire?

Right:
The members of Theta Xi are nowhere to be seen. Maybe they should have been a little more aware of the rules. Are tents made out of cardboard these days?

SHACK-A-THON

Left:
These students from Heitz Hall look very excited to be at the Shack-a-Thon. Although, it may actually be better living out there than it is in Heitz Hall.

Below:
These guys are pretty content with their shack, and they are also more brave than some of the other students. Many students disappeared into their shacks with the coming of the cold weather.

Above:
These girls really look happy to be at the Shack-a-Thon! They are either actually excited or they are starting to hallucinate from the cold weather.

Left:
The Newman Center students and monks made a model of Noah's Ark and did a great job at it. There is only one problem with this picture: where is the flood?

LUDACRIS

Above:
Ludacris rocks the Field "house" at his concert here at Bradley in April. He put on a very good show that pleased most of the students.

Above:
Ludacris is one performer who gets very enthusiastic with his performances and gets in touch with his audience. Isn't that obvious?

Above:
Students were very pleased with the Ludacris performance and were also pleased with Bradley for obtaining such a popular guest for the spring concert.

Above:
Ludacris strains himself to get the words out - well at least that is what it looks like, but he actually had a pretty easy time with the Bradley audience.

Top Center:
Ludacris proved to Bradley what a wonderful entertainer he is. His popular lyrics and crazy moves kept BU on its toes the whole time - hopefully we can find someone just as impressive for next year.

EVERCLEAR

Left:

The lead singer of everclear, Art Alexakis, serenades the audience during the first song of their performance. Without his amazing vocals, everclear could never have been such a success.

Below:

Craig Montaya, bassist for everclear, rocks his heart out during their fall performance here at Bradley. Most of the students seemed to be very pleased with their concert this year.

Left:

Ryan of Saving Face rocks the house with his amazing performance. Students seemed to love this opening band's performance just as much as the main act.

WHAT'S THERE TO DO IN PEORIA?

Below:

The GKC Landmark Theater is a great place to relax and enjoy a new movie. It is located behind Wal-Mart on University Street.

Right:

Many Bradley students and Peorians spend their free time at Panache. It is a coffee shop located in Sheridan Village.

Left:

Even though they may not like to admit it, many Bradley students spend an abundance of their free time cruising stores like Wal-Mart and Target.

Above:

The Landmark Bowling Center is a great place to go and have a good time. It also includes many arcade games and is attached to the GKC Theater.

Left:
Many of Bradley's older students spend their weekends at the Lady on Farmington Road. They can even enjoy a safe drive home on the Pickle.

Below:
At the riverfront in downtown Peoria, people can enjoy the beautiful scenery or dine at restaurants such as Hooters, Damon's and Old Chicago.

Above:
At the Lakeview Center and nearby Owens Center students can enjoy the waterpark or go ice-skating. They are located on Lake Avenue.

Far Left:
Many students feel the need to undergo daring adventures when there is a lack of better things to do. Mojo's piercing and tattoo parlor is a great place for that. It is located on Adams Street in downtown Peoria.

Near Left:
When things get warmed up outside, many students find time to visit the Ice Cream Shack, just down the road from Mojo's. It is a great place to spend mom and dad's money.

Right:
The Bradley Basketball team makes its way down court at the homecoming game this year. The Braves played a tough game and tried to prove that they were worthy of a homecoming celebration.

Below:
This short but sweet float shows itself off throughout the homecoming parade. These students look like they have plenty of school spirit.

Above:
It looks like the Bradley Braves are fighting hard for a homecoming victory, and no matter what the score ends up to be we will know that the team tried their hardest.

Right:
The Bradley cheerleaders also show their school spirit while cheering on the basketball team. Hopefully they feel as confident with their moves as the team does.

HOMECOMING

Left:
The Bradley choir and band show their support for the team. Also, look at those crazed fans. The band and choir sure got a nice view.

Below:
The University Police, Peoria firemen and Mark Twain Hotels show their support for the Bradley basketball teams as well. Without their support, Homecoming just wouldn't be the same.

Above:
Some pedestrians watch the exciting Homecoming parade as it passes them by. They sure lucked out by having good weather during the parade.

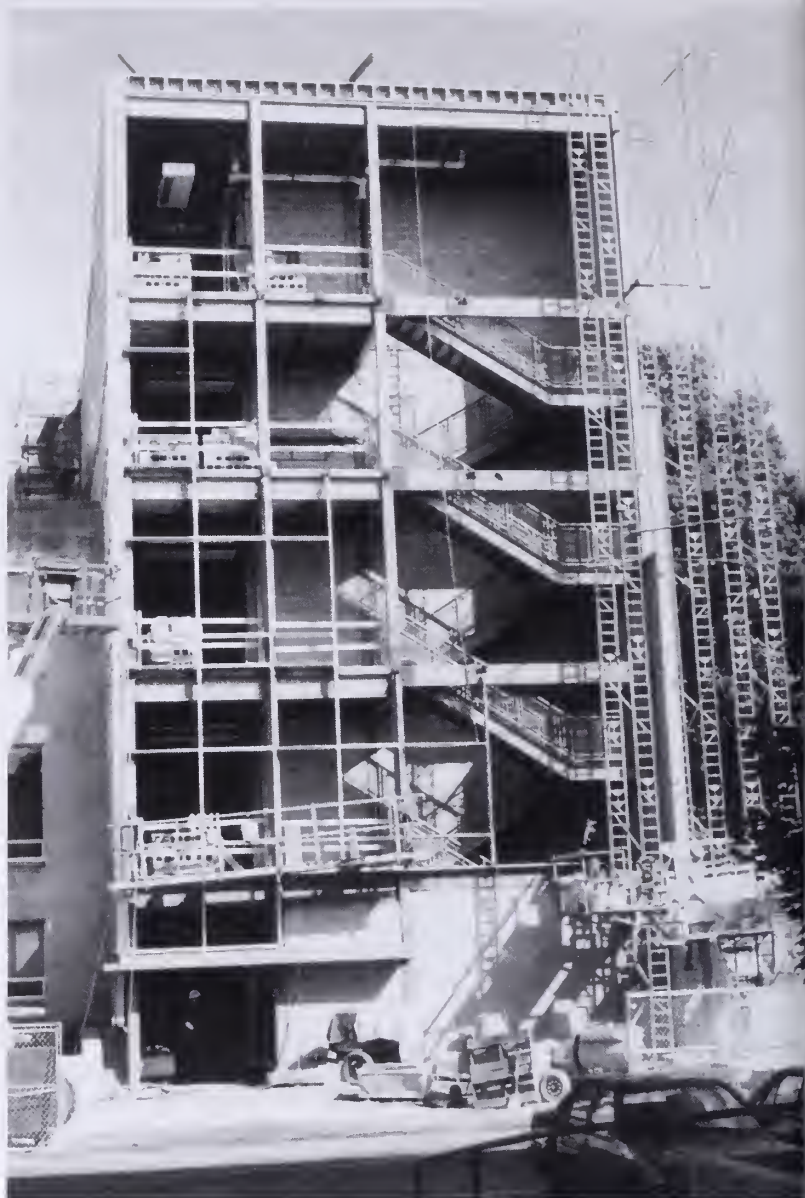

Left:
These spirited fans are decked out in Bradley gear to show their support for the team, but they just couldn't stray away from the Mardi Gras theme. Nice beads!

Clockwise starting from below: Jason Pikscher, Kristy Klaibor and Aaron Dean realize how hard directing a play really is. A debate sponsored by Society of Professional Journalists features a panel of Bradley professors examining the first amendment and media today. All the participants of the BU Dance Marathon take a break to receive some encouraging words. Environmentalist Sandra Steingraber signs her new book for a Bradley professor. Josh Baron, Kate Ferguson, Ben Schlan, Rachel Jaurdan and Brad Lerner are out on the quad on a cold day. Jon Earley taking a breather. Geisert 2 posing for a quick picture before going back to their shack and the Shack-a-Thon. Chris Bright is definitely worn out. The Harper/Wyckoff staff is hard at work checking in new residents. # Alpha Chi Omega

Alpha Chi Omega wasn't always as it is today. It was first established at Bradley in 1976 as the local sorority Delta Nu. In the spring of 1976 the sorority contacted several national sororities. After long discussions the twelve Delta Nu's voted unanimously to petition Alpha Chi Omega for national colonization. It then was installed as the Zeta Eta chapter on May 6th, 1978.

Chi Omega began on April 17, 1916 with the foundation of a local sorority named Delta Kappa. In 1947 the ladies voted and Chi Omega received the most votes, thus making it the first national sorority on Bradley's campus. In April of 1947 ninety-nine Delta Kappas became Chi Omega's and coincidentally enough the Mu Delta ladies because the ninety-ninth chapter of Chi Omega.

Phi Beta

The ladies of Gamma Phi Beta sponsored a new philanthropy this spring. They sold camping spaces to various organizations on campus for a 24-hour camp out. The event featured a large trampoline, hours of music and tons of food for the participants. All of the proceeds went to Camp Fire USA.

Pi Beta Phi

Pi Beta Phi was nationally founded in 1867 at Monmouth College in Monmouth, IL. Pi Beta Phi was the first national secret college society of women, which was modeled after the Greek-letter fraternities of men. They continue to live by their motto "we must dare to dream, for if there are no dreams, there cannot be 'dreams come true.'"

Upsilon

Delta Upsilon was founded on the promotion of friendship, the development of character, the diffusion of liberal culture and the advancement of justice. They also were the first non-secret fraternity established and continue to honor that fact today as they hold open chapters and boldly display their oath to Delta Upsilon.

Phi Gamma Delta

The Beta Pi chapter of Phi Gamma Delta was established on Bradley's campus in 1982. Beta Pi has always excelled in academics and campus leadership. They claim their most exciting achievement as an honorable mention for the Cheney Cup (an award for the best Chapter in Phi Gamma Delta) in 1997.

In the fall of 1961, a group of friends living in Constance Hall, nicknamed the "Connie Cats" decided to start a new fraternity. Soon after their chartering in 1965, the Gamma Mu chapter moved to 1511 W. Fredonia, and then rented the house next door as well. In 1983, they built their new chapter house, where they still reside.

Pi Kappa Alpha, or Pike as it is commonly referred to, was founded at the University of Virginia in 1868. Due to University policies banning fraternities, Pike had a hard time establishing itself as a national fraternity. Twenty-one years later it established its second chapter at Davidson College and began to thrive as a national fraternity.

Pi Kappa Phi

Pi Kappa Phi nationally began as Nu Phi, the non-fraternity at the turn of the 20th century. It established itself on Bradley's campus in 1982. As many other fraternity's are Pi Kappa Phi is based on friendship and trust and this is what has allowed them to initiate more than 80,000 across the nation.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is North America's largest social fraternity with more than 260,000 initiated members. Their symbols include the lion, the phoenix, Minerva and the fluer-de-lis. Some of their prominent national alumni include Elliot Ness, David Spade, Phil Jackson and Fred Savage.

Sigma

Chi

Sigma Chi was nationally affiliated in 1949 and in that fall recruitment they pulled the largest pledge class on campus. Despite their name change Sigma Chi continued a standard that was established as Sigma Phi. In 1956 they then moved to their present location on campus and their Greek pillars stand as the last traditional fraternity house on campus.

Theta

Chi

The Gamma Upsilon chapter of Theta Chi was originally located where the present day Wyckoff Hall is located. They then moved into two separate houses along University and St. James. Finally they were moved to 1308 W. Fredonia when Bradley University decided to create a fraternity row. The Gamma Upsilon chapter of Theta Chi is the 89th chapter established and has been on Bradley's campus since 1949.

The theme for this book is a classic Bradley theme. Our goal was to capture Bradley University as it is seen through the student's eyes. We hope that you find that this is reflected in our work and that you develop your own meaning of Bradley University. We also would like to recognize our Outstanding Editor of the Year, Tiffany Larew, and our Outstanding New Editors of the Year, Lexie Beer and Jessica Marschke.

**Also a special thanks to Chris Kaergard and Tiffany Larew for all their hard work and dedication to the staff and this book.*
